

Mausen's

A Norwegian Deli

"Mamsen" Ragnhild Hagen

Mamsen sharing the joys of exploration with the next generation.

Dear Guests,

Traditional Norwegian food, according to my grandmother's recipes, is what we want to share with you here at Mamsen's.

My grandmother's kitchen celebrated tradition and healthy, home-cooked food. In the winter, when the sun hardly rose, she made hearty soups and stews from scratch. In the summer, when the sun hardly set, we ate lighter fare of cured meats and fish, and open-faced sandwiches which we call smørbrød. And year round, the special treats were her heart-shaped waffles, for which every grandmother in Norway has her own fiercely protected recipe, served with jam or typical Norwegian brown goat cheese.

The bond between a grandparent and grandchild is irreplaceable. My grandmother, humble and hard working, was my mentor and my best friend. From being the safe lap to sit on, to being the safe harbor bereft of any judgment. Her kitchen represented that safe harbor, and the dishes on this menu originate from that very kitchen.

Velkommen til bords! Welcome to the table! We hope you enjoy this little taste of Norway in memory of my grandmother Ragnhild, otherwise known as "Mamsen!"
